NOTES

Renaissance Lady was a humorous play on words from the phrase “Renaissance Man” as referring to a man who was good at and could do anything. This term is usually in reference to expertise in the areas of the arts, sciences and gentility such as those embodied by Leonard da Vinci, Cosimo de Medici and Michelangelo.

Truly, though, my intention for this sculpture was to utilize an ornate base in resin that had broken off of a larger home décor item. As I enjoy the clothing from various historic eras, I chose to create a noble lady dressed in the Renaissance style.

With her dress and stylish sleeves, elegant coiffure, and charming demeanor, I enjoyed creating a delightful piece that truly deserves an ornate base. A beautiful decorative figure, she has graced many a book shelf in my home and studio. Truly a “Renaissance Lady”.

The purchase of Renaissance Lady includes a signed certificate of authenticity from the sculptor.
